EIGHTH DISTRICT REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION

The Rep blican electors of the Eighth Con-gressional district are hereby notified that a convention will be held in Springfield, Ohio, on Tuesday, August 17th, 1886, and into a theater, and is too far up town for a convention.

The only places available in any way suitable are the Grand opera house and the city halloff the two the Grand is preferable. The fact might as well be stated now as at any other time, Columbus must erect a hall suitable for conventions, or conventions must go elsewhere. There is no use crowding people into a small space, like sardines in a box, when a few thousand deliars could be profitably invested in the erection of a decent half for public meetings. The city hall is large enough, but the acoustics are miscrable. The wretch who did the architectural skinning of the city for that structure ought to be extradited and brought back and executed on a lamp post in front of his miscrably botched job.

It is understood that an effort is being made today to form a company and raise the necessary funds to erect a hall that will be a credit to the city. Unless this is done, conventions in the future must go elsewhere to order to secure a decent room in which public meetings can be held with some degree of comfort. at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Reprosentative in the Fiftieth Congress of the United States.

As the time for holding the republican state convention approaches, the maked fact is bumped up against that there is a likelihood of having unach trouble in securing a half or place for the deliberations of the body. The city half is of no earthly account. It is impossible to hear a speaker with any degree of sat isfaction half way across the half. The Comstock opera house, where conventions have usually been held, has been remodeled, and can not be had.

The tirand opera house can be secured, but the trouble with it is it is rather cramped for such gatherings as a state convention. This was found to be the case last year. Arrangements had been made to use the Princess rink but it had been rented for an armory for the Fourteenth regiment, and the windows have all been closed so that it would be "hotter than the hingres of sheed" in there. That has been abandoned. The other rink has been converted into a theater, and is too far up town for a convention.
